FISHERIES EXPLOITATION IN THE INDIAN OCEAN

Threats and Opportunities

Edited by Dennis Rumley, Sanjay Chaturvedi and Vijay Sakhuja

The book aims to further the debate on the impacts of fisheries policies in the Indian Ocean Region in order to facilitate a new regional policy direction. A key argument of the volume is that ecologically sustainable and socially just development and management of Indian Ocean fisheries require a paradigm shift in the perceptions and policies of major stakeholders. A central policy challenge is to identify a collective regional interest for fisheries and, accordingly, the development of integrated management policies that link ecology and society and which incorporate individuals, communities, agencies, states and regimes into a holistic cooperative endeavour. Successful ocean governance, therefore, requires greater inter-state and inter-agency consultation and cooperation, an improvement in linking national initiatives to local action, increased participation of local government and local communities, and the enhancement of local capability. To achieve this overall goal requires either the enhancement of existing regional institutions or the creation of a new regional body.
